It's 78 degrees outside, and I'm inside the cramped Manager's Office bringing you the entertainment that you have been accustomed to love. So what will I talk to you about this week? Well two words, satellite imaging. I know that this week's topic is really lame but I found some crazy mad website that has, what else, satellite images. The website is <http://maps.google.com>. The whole idea behind it is rather simple. Click on Satellite in the upper right hand corner, search an address, for example your home address, and presto it gives u a satellite image of your neighborhood. It's sorta creepy if you ask me, but really cool. I used this to see the famous sights that I've never had the chance to see in real life, like Mount Rushmore and the Naked Cowboy in the middle of Times Square. So give it a go. Have some fun with it. Stalk some people. I promise this website will give u hours and hours of entertainment, guaranteed.

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF FRANKY.

So yesterday Mary Dawn and I played Tarot Cards. Since I profess I'm "Catholic," I was initially hesitant to engage in the "dark arts." After 8 seconds of hesitation, I decided to go along with it, since playing tarot cards is almost the same thing as playing "Go Fish!" minus the presence of six year olds.

It was a rather interesting game. It seemed that Mary Dawn was Ms. Cleo's twin. For those of you who do not know Ms. Cleo, this is what she looks like. She speaks with a heavy Jamaican accent, and her motto is: "Call me now for your free reading." Usually one can see her commercials at 4 in the morning on public broadcasting stations. Oh look, you can call her if you want. The phone number's right there. But honestly, did I take the divinatory meanings of the tarot cards to heart? No, not really. I know it's a whole lot of "mumbo jumbo." It was just a fun time trying to fit whatever the instruction booklet said what each card meant to my friends' lives. During the final House BBQ (which is coming up shortly), I will offer free tarot card reading sessions for $10 per person. All who are interested, IM me at KCECHTP. Cheers.
